02 #47 - Probable Meeting with Grallapides 1
on 13 October 1953.

It is arranged at the last meeting (see CH #16), case officer [redacted] was to meet agent Grallapies 1 at 2000 hours in the Grallapies 1 apartment at 11 October 1953. Case officer arrived at the apartment at 1940 hours and Grallapies 1 appeared promptly at 2000 hours. The purpose of the meeting, which lasted 40 minutes, was to receive from agent his draft of the deflection letter, to reimburse him for personal housing and to check for any further results on the blackmail attempt of Maria PYZNICKI.

3. Gullayides turned in his second draft of the defection letter which he is writing for us. As was instructed at the last meeting to shorten the letter, to put less emphasis on the agricultural state of Russia, to make the letter more personal, and to attack the relation of Russia by communism. The second draft was considerably better than the first in that it was much shorter and Agent had sharpened the tone of the letter somewhat more. Agent also made the letter a little more personal. However, the letter still lacked the patriotic touch and still showed somewhat of editorialism. Case officer suggested that Agent put in the letter here and there sentences with a 100% patriotic touch, such as a call for aid to Mother Russia, a plea for the release of his suffering fellow countrymen, etc. Agent was a bit hesitant and asked why the emphasis on the "rural patriotism." Agent pointed (and case officer agrees thoroughly) that a purely patriotic letter is not only heavy but also worn out. As agent pointed out even a patriotic letter has to have its basis. Why should a Russian officer fight for Mother Russia? What is the reason? A reason for his actions and his willingness to fight against communism must be clearly shown to him. (20 Lines) Case officer feels this is every body's point. Therefore agent said he used the recent German treatment of the agricultural condition of Russia as a basis for the letter. Case officer said that was a good idea, and not because of a political, and suggested to Agent

4. Challenge 1 reported that he had heard that Maria FRENKEL was once considered jumping about her great, beloved grandmother who was so abused by Challenge 1's mother, nothing further has developed. Agent feels that FRENKEL was only talking in the hope this talk would reach Challenge 1's ears and he would come running to help her up. Although it does not seem possible that FRENKEL would see any way to help such as going to the police, she seems content in her threat and may try a little harder to bring Challenge 1 and his name around to her bar.

5. Case officer told agent that Sullivan 1 that if he wished to find a summer apartment he should by all means go ahead. Case officer had not had any contact with Sullivan 1 since Sullivan 1 left the apartment and therefore case officer left it up to agent whether he wanted to go to the bother of making for what might possibly be a very short space of time. Sullivan 1 replied that he did not know where to look for a summer apartment or not. Case officer pointed out to agent that the $200 minimum monthly limit as outlined in the contract did not mean that agent could not buy sufficient coal to heat his present apartment through the winter. Agent could buy as much coal as he wanted and we would merely stretch that monthly coal bill throughout the year. Case officer made it clear that agent should be comfortably warm for the winter months.

6. It was agreed to meet again on 30 October 1955 at 1000 hours at the same place.

7. Agent was paid 1,800 shillings for the cost of his personal services and expenses for the trip. He was also paid 1,800 shillings for the cost of his personal services and expenses for the trip.
